IMPORTANT TO SOLDIERS.—The following decision relative to Government property while in the hands of a soldier, was to-day made by the second Comptroller of the Treasury: "A soldier in possession of Government property, and losing the same by neglect of duty, is responsible for its loss and subject to the deduction of the amount of its value from any pay or bounty due him, unless the Government shall be otherwise indemnified for the loss of the same. In the case of accrued pensions, where the pensioner is deceased and without heirs, the same authority decides that unpaid pensions reverts to the Government. In case of a soldier receiving advanced bounty on entering the service and afterward deserting, it is held that an honorable discharge is essential to the payment of such bounty. An officer commissioned by a Governor, and doing duty prior to the 3d day of march, 1865, but not mustered in until after that date, is not entitled to the three months' extra pay.

IDAHO ITEMS.—The Idaho papers afford the following:

Mining is carried on successfully this season, at Idaho City, and the creeks adjoining Mathewson & Ingersol are working about ninety hands, and cleaning up from $3,000 to $4,000 every 24 hours, on Moore's creek. Friend & Allen's, and other claims, are also paying largely on the same creek. The work on the Chickahominy or the Cobden Company's mine, is progressing very rapidly. The machinery is all on the ground and and winter quarters nearly completed. The Union Gold Mining Company's mines (the Astor, United States and other ledges) are being speedily developed, and buildings erected for the reception of the machinery, which is on the road.

Indian Troubles in Utah.

For some years after Utah was first settled, the Lamanites were a source of some annoyance to the squatters of the haciendas and rudely constructed villas, of the outer settlements; but of late years, the evil has comparatively ceased.

It has been asserted by gentile residents and disaffected Mormons that, except in the war of 1852, the dark-skinned assailants have been refractory members of the bands to which they belonged, acting upon their own agency, without being at all influenced by the general feeling of their tribes toward the Mormon community, and with the design to gratify their rapacious dispositions, rather than from any hostility to the Mormons, as such. The bands themselves have been famed for their friendship to Utonians, even when ,they were at war with all other whites The "Presidency" and their satellites, have made this their boast.

That the Mormons generally speaking could cross the plains, visit in every direction of the compass, travel among the Indians in peace, share their primitive hospitality, and even be treated by them with a degree of courtesy, is patent to all who are conversant with the history of Utah. "Missionaries" have been sent among the Indians, and not only resided there unmolested, but initiated the untutored savage into some of the mysteries of the secret sign system. Until lately, with one exception, the faithful were perfectly safe among the Indians, as long as they trusted themselves with those who respected their chieftain's authority.

There was one period, however, when Mormons were unsafe, and when the Indians waged war upon war against them, known as the Indian war of 1852, and to defray the expenses of which, Congress made so liberal an appropriation.

It is not generally known by what particulor act the Indians were aroused to hostility against the Mormons at that period. Many of the Indians were "brothers" of those against they fought, and their great chief "Walker" and his brother were sworn friends of the Utah Mohammed. The entire tribes south, with their petty chiefs, were all subject to Walker, the great chief of the Utes. It has been boasted of that he had been initiated into the church. When, therefore, it is remembered that he led the van against the Mormons, and that even Brigham himself (and of course the "Prophet" cannot be mistaken) taught that Walker "was the soul of honor," it is, with nothing more than the Mormon version of the war, a most singular affair. That a man who is "one of the noblest specimens" of "the noble red man," should become the bitterest enemy of the people to whom he had become allied by ties of brotherhood, and of the man to whom he had sworn lasting fealty, is,unless, indeed, he had some weighty reasons to justify his conduct, more singular still. That he had such reasons we shall now proceed to show.

The fall previous to the breaking out of the war, a wealthy trader by the name of Bowman, who had been to Mexico, and obtained a large quantity of trinkets for Indian trading, arrived in southern Utah, and did considerable trading with the Utes. Early in the spring he prepared to leave Utah for the States, purchased his outfit of the Mormons, and loaded up several teams with furs and other merchandiseable wares intended for the Eastern market. He was on good terms with the Indians, was respected by the chief Walker, and, ostensibly, by the Mormons too. He purposed to pass through G. S. L. City, and several of the faithful who wished to visit the City to receive their endowments, availed themselves of his kind offer to ride in his teams. While en route, and encamped at [illegible], his neck yokes were stolen, [illegible] the [illegible] a [illegible] the [illegible] Mormon [illegible] tion and the night after the messenger's return, the neck-yokes were restored to their places.

Hethen regarded it as a joke played upon him by some of "the smart Mormon b-hoys" out of pure deviltry, and prepared to resume his journey. Previous to starting, Patriarch Morley visited his camp and instructed the church members to leave his train. They did so, and he pursued his journey. When some distance in the Cañon, where to either advance or retreat were impossible, some Indians were seen; he was fired upon, HIMSELF AND EVERY MEMBER OE HIS TRAIN MURDERED. An inquest was held over their bodies, and the verdict returned, "killed by Indians." The teams were re-hitched, and driven to Salt Lake City—perhaps the clerks in the "tithing office," or those in Brigham's private employ, could tell to what particular locality they were driven!

On learning the jury's decision, the Ute chief, Walker, called together the tribes, and held a council of war, he determing to restore the property and punish the Indians who had committed the murder. He resorted to every stratagem, but could neither find their property among the Indians, nor any evidence that could criminate them. When he had become satisfied of their innocence, one of his tribe stepped forward and revealed the secret. He testified to being in the vicinity of the cañon when the murder took place, and saw "a number of men on horseback, dressed and painted like Indians; but they did not ride like Indians." He saw them enter the cañon; heard the firing, and saw them return in the direction of Manti. Upon learning this, Walker was more confirmed in his opinion. He then went to the Bishop of Manti, and demanded that the stigma be taken off the Indian character; but met with nothing save abuse for his pains. He bid the Bishop beware, for if the calumny was not removed, he would "wipe it out in blood." He retnrned to his subordinate chiefs, and after a general consultation, war was declared.

Thus originated the war of 1852, and the unfortunate men whose property had excited the cupidity that led to it, were buried in the ill-fated cañon that was made the scene of their horrible butchery.

Indian troubles are again rife South—how shall we account for them this time? Has some fresh crime been perpetrated? or do the Indians still intend revenge for the imputation cast upon them of being the sole perpetrators of the Bowman massacre, and the still more revolting one of the Mountain Meadows?

From Montana.

HELENA, Oct. 10th 1865.

HELENA AND ITS ENVIRONS.

Editor Vedette.—Situated near the mouth of what is called "Grizzly gulch" overlooking the broad expanse of Prickly Pear Valley and shut out on the south and west side by the spur of mountain connecting itself west with the main chain or "back bone" of the American Continent, is located the wonder of mushroom mining camps, Helena. The buildings do not materially differ from those erected in Virginia fifteen months ago and need no description from my pen to assist the imagination of the distant reader. Grizzly gulch was discovered early in '64 by a party of prospectors originally from Georgia and more recently from Colorado who instead of rambling over the country to find the fountain head from whence flowed at one time this golden lava, wisely concluded to take what providence had thus sent them and improve the present. The result following this philosophic conclusion I am happy to say has proven entirely satisfactory in a pecuniary sense, to the Georgia prospectors. It is related of them that during the year of '64 many prospectors struck their camp who were in search of the place where all the gold came from and upon inquiry as to the pay were universally informed that the digging was not rich but by hard labor would remunerate an industrious laborer at the rate of from five to seven dollars after their claim was opened. Also that upon the approach of strangers, shovels would drop carelessly from the miners' hands and a rifle or shot gun and hunting rig take its place until the intruders had left the [illegible]. For the truth of this I cannot vouch, but certain it is that the pioneer party of Last Chance have realized a competence from their industry and deserve more credit therefor than they make haste to be-rich people [illegible] already [illegible] ful va[illegible] Mill C[illegible] upon [illegible] line of [illegible] and st[illegible] out [illegible] brown back ground of the plains from their source to their final junction with the soiled waters of the great Missouri. In this valley (says the old mountaineers) the Blackfoot, the Pagan and Bannock wintered his stock and killed the Bison, Elk, Antelope and Deer, and thus passed the long winter in comparative comfort free from the incursions of their enemies who followed the war path seeking the scalps of their braves. Here the [illegible] arch of the prairie has disappeared and the elk and deer visit it only when the deep snows have filled up the mountain ravines and make their browsing grounds untenable even for them.

In close proximity to the Missouri lie White's, Oregon and two or more new gulches of recent discovery that promise much when the spring sun shall fill the ravines with the indispensible element so necessary to the miners' success. So much for the situation of the town of Helena.

ITS PEOPLE AND MORALS

to one unacquainted with a frontier mining camp are anything but of a satisfactory character; most of the traders who have immigrated here, have no abiding interest, and care little for the future welfare of tae country. They come into it as pedlars with their wares to dispose of, and the only trouble resting upon their minds seems to be the chance of dividing with "Road Agents" when they leave.

From the above the reader will readily perceive that this country would afford but little encouragement to colporters, tract distributors or poor clergymen. The great and almighty dollar has swollen in its proportion here, and causes men to commit more follies, petty crimes, and stoop lower than they would like to acknowledge after they have obtained their "pile" and returned to the sacred bosom of their families in the States.

The recent raid of some body (supposed to be the Vigilantes) upon the petty larceny man caused some wonder a few days since. A man who followed gambling it seems, was arrested and held by the powers that be, to answer some charge unknown to the outside world. He was released and returned to his card game the same evening; but strange to say, when morning dawned upon the hills which surround Helena, the above young man was discovered suspended to the limb of a lonely pine a few yards from town. Men, women and children, flocked to see it, and (shame to tell it) the corse was allowed to hang suspended for 36 hours exposed in that position. The words 'Pick-Pocket" were written and pinned to the coat upon the body.

Another case came under our notice a few days since. The victim was named "Con Kirby," and was recently from Boise; was looked upon by his acquaintance as rather a drunken, worthless young man, but so far has always been considered a harmless one. The last seen of him alive, he was said to be much inebriated. No paper was fastened to the body, nor none are aware of the crimes charged him. Rumor has it that some seven others were found suspended in other portions of the Territory during a few subsequent days to the execution of the so-called "Pick-Pocket," for the truth of which the writer cannot vouch. The operation of law would be far more satisfactory, and it is sincerely to be hoped, that this unknown manner of putting criminals out of the way, may soon be dispensed with as unnecessary demoralizing to the community, and a stain upon the name of our fair land.

A NEW AND IMPORTANT SOURCE OF SUPPLIES was opened via the old Mullen road, with Idaho, Oregon and California. Already some eleven hundred animals, loaded with the products of those prolific districts, the East Indias and islands of the Pacific, have arrived in this Territory. It is estimated by competent authority, recently from near the junction of Snake and Clearwater rivers, that not less than twenty-three hundred animals are engaged in this trade. The cost of transportation from Walla Walla or Lewiston to this city averages seventeen cents per pound, and the time usually taken is from twenty to twenty five days. At the price goods were ruling in the States last winter, while gold was rapidly declining, it is not difficult to understand how successfully our "otherside" neighbors can compete in this market. To use a slang term, they "have a good thing." and will undoubtedly improve it untill the sun gets far north in July of next season. No little discussion has been raised in high circles by the appearance of several cargoes of goods from the British possessions. Many of these goods are of American manufacture, that have paid our duty to the English government; others are undoubtedly of foreign manufacture and liable to confiscation. But how or in what manner to detect, with any degree of certainty, or in what manner to proceed against them to the end, seems so far to have proven a puzzle to all. INDEX.

Northern News.

The Dalles Mountaineer says:

The whooping-cough is prevalent at Walla Walla.

Building, and improvements in general, are progressing very rapidly at Walla Walla.

WAGES.—Miners wages average from $5 to $6 in Boise mines; a proof that the average yield of that district is not on a decline, as wages have been at about these figures for over two years.

Walla Walla county, Washington Territy, is talked of being annexed to Oregon.

Fort Boise is being supplied with provisions from the Dalles. They are transported via Canyon City, at the rate of ten cents per pound.

SILVER BRICK TO CHAIRMAN ASHLEY:—Prominent parties in Ada and Boise counties, Idaho, are talking of getting up a large silver brick, to send as a present to Hon. J. M. Ashley, Washington city. The Avalanche remarks quite naively that if anything were needed to keep alive brother Ashley's favorable impressions of the "Gem of the Mountains" 'twould be this. Well, wonder where it wouldn't!

NEW APPLICATION.—San Francisco property-owners, when they talk about reconstruction, do not refer to the Southern States, but to the buildings in the Bay City, since that [illegible]

"OLD PAP."—The St. Louis Republican says there is no truth in the story General Sterling Price has received a commission from Maximillian. He has gone to Brazil.

JAMES W. PARKER, formerly of Company G, First Cavalry, Cal. Vol's., was wounded by Apaches, near Tucson, and shot himself with his own pistol, to avoid being captured alive.

AWAY up north, "in the Web-foot country," they say it keeps pouring rain in torrents, and that for the next six months, or so, the chances for seeing sunshine will be slim, from rain and snow and things of that sort!

BILLY WAY, formerly of Co. "K" 3rd Infty. C. V. sells the best fruit, brought to Camp Douglas. He visits Camp daily with a wagon load of "goodies." Billy is a pleasant agreable fellow and sells apples, peaches, etc., cheap.

THE cause of there being no dispatches from the east, since Sunday, lies in the report received here briefly from Julesburg, Sunday night, to wit, that the Indians were playing smash with the poles and wires.

THE Indians attacked a Government train while in camp, last Sunday night, 22nd inst., near Alkali Station, and ran off some stock. The teamsters succeeded in killing eight of the miscreants.

THE young men of Idaho City are talking of organizating a select club for their winter amusement, and for mental, physical and financial improvement of its members. The last clause in the constitution ought to draw a crowd. One black ball will exclude any applicant from joining the society!

THERE was a merry tripping of the "light fantastic" at the Camp Theater on Monday evening, after the performance.

We hope to see the dance revived in Camp ere many weeks.—Some of the finest parties in Utah have been given by our Volunteers.

JOSEPH POSS, of Co. "F" Nev. Cav. Vols, has a shoemaker's shop in Camp. We do not exaggerate in the least, in saying that he makes the handsomest and best boot or shoe that is manufactured in the Territory. We are wearing a pair of boots of his "get up," and can vouch for what we say.

MR. BASSET, Telegraph Superintendent, returned from South Pass and Laramie Monday evening. He has been working, "like a hired man," all along the line for several weeks past, putting the poles and wires into working shape.

Mr. McDonald, from Montana's metropolis, and Mr. Coburn from Barr River, returned lately, likewise.

Henry Ohle is on the Weber!

GENERAL HOOKER IN LUCK.—A correspondent of the Washington Republican states that Major-General Hooker was to be married on September 12th to Miss Groesbeck of Cincinnatti, sister of Judge W. L. Groesbeck, ex-member of Congress. Miss Groesbeck enjoys an income of $40,000 per annum. Another paper of the same city says the statement is incorrect.

CHARLES MACKAY, the notorious secessionist-correspondent of the London Times, whose small fame as a writer of indifferent ballads has been altogether obliterated by his great infamy as a supporter of the slaveholders' rebellion, has got into trouble in Canada. The Montreal Telegraph says "that he is incensed at the Canadian government because they did not pay him more attention, and that one or two annexationists in Montreal got hold of him while he was in the dumps, and pumped into his poor brain the ideas with which he led astray his employers in Printing House square."

SAME OLD SONG.—Those two writhing, wriggling organs of polygamy, the Telegraph, of yesterday, and the News, of day before, came out with the same old songs—claiming it the essence of christianity to keep as many wives as one wants to, and sanctifying all the crimes that their exchanges chronicle, as so many evidences of mormonism being the truest civilization! Schoolboys, bantlings even, ought to be ashamed for offering such [illegible], shoddy stuff as "arguments"! It deserves no notice, further than

"A [illegible] [illegible] the whole,
Of the [illegible] [illegible] called [illegible]."

THAT rumor yesterday of the whole Ephraim settlement being scalped, was not so very [illegible] or three men, a woman and a little boy. Bad enough though, for them; and for the Indians, too, in another sense. The latter need a chastisement, although "Ephraim's lament" is lighter than first rumored.

HONORS TO GEN. CONNOR.—The right kind of men, of town and Camp, seem to be on the go, to give Gen. Connor and Staff a suitable and cordial reception on or after his arrival, if they can only learn when that will be. Knowing it to be in accordance with the General's style and pleasure personally to care little about outside pomp and public speechifying, they fear he's going to steal a march on 'em, Tongue River fashion, and quietly strike Camp. In either event, the "will" will be "as good as the deed," to him, and to those brave boys who under him shared hardships and showed bravery unparalleled in Indian warfare. Skillful chivalry and suffering, for plains protection, is not to be forgotten, no matter how or which way we may "See the conquering hero comes!"

Idaho Items.

The Owyhee Avalanch, of October 14th, says:

Eleven wagons arrived at Camp Lyon on Thursday last, from Walla Walla, with supplies for the camp during the winter. Eighty thousand pounds of grain to be in soon.

The denizens of Owyhee should feel grateful for the fine "spell of weather" with which they are being blessed at present.

A train of thirty-six pack mules passed through town yesterday, heavily loaded with merchandise, for parties in or about Silver.

On the night of the 8th inst., the "poor untutored Indian" called on Dr. Inskip, on Lower Cow Creek, and, probably out of sympathy for his poverty stricken condition, ten horses followed him away. Being hungry, and too well bred to disturb the Dr.'s slumbers, he killed only one ox for a lunch. At this rate of progress, poor Lo will soon become rich.

The Lewiston, North Idaho Radiator says:

Thirty thousand dollars of Blackfoot dust has been assayed at Lewiston. The dust holds its own well—averaging $17 50 to the ounce. Some lots go $18 50.

The Idaho World says:

Hon. Edward D. Holbrook, Delegate elect to Congress from Idaho Territory, will leave Idaho City next week for Washington, to take his seat at the opening of the session on the first Monday of December.

THE WEATHER.—For the benefit of the world beyond Idaho, we will say that the fall season here has been, and continues, as pleasant as any one could desire. The nights are cool, but the days are balmy, and the hills covered with a sunshine as golden as "the castles in the air" of an old Forty-niner.

[And right the next item we find after this "golden sunshine" squib, is the following. There's a contradiction somewhere, and not a shadow of consistency: —ED.]

HAIL.—A severe hail storm apparently attempted to level the hills about the Warm Springs last Sunday about two o'clock in the morning. The hail descended for a time so thick and heavy that residents began to be alarmed—but it passed away without inflicting any damage.

Special Notice.

THERE is a phrenologist near the docks who can tell the contents of a barrel by examing its head. He makes his examinations with a gimblet.

A TENDER-HEARTED engineer on the Central Railroad, says he never runs over a man if he can help it, because it "musses up the track so!" Fine taste, that.

"ALL flesh is grass," sighed Spriggles after dinner yesterday, and the wretched man immediately added—"Of all grasses give me a grass widow!"

"Two and two are four." Are they? That shows how much you know about it. I saw a young ladies' school out walking the other day. They were "two and two," and I counted them. They were forty!

HERMIONE is a very pretty appellation for an engaged young lady. Of course the sweetheart of a lady with that name would continually be saying:—"How delightful it will be to call her-my-own."
